

Abusive Behaviors

People might try different ways to get me to do things that I don't like.

They might call me names or say mean things.

They might say that they won't be my friend or care about me.

They might not help me when I need it.

They might take things away from me.

They might even hit me or hurt me in other ways.

Abusive Behaviors

They might try to scare me.

It is not ok for people to do mean things to me.

If someone tries to do these things, I should tell them to "stop."

If people do these things to me, I should tell an adult that I trust.

Mom, a boy has been mean to me and makes me sad.

I am in charge of my body.

You did the right thing. You have control.

No one is allowed to touch me unless I say it is ok.

It's up to me who can touch me.

Pennsylvania's leading source of autism-related resources and information
877-231-4244

The ASERT Collaborative is funded by the Office of Developmental Programs, PA Department of Human Services