

It is healthy to spend time with people who love me and care about me.

These people will try to keep me safe and happy.

Sometimes people might only pretend to care about me.

These people might hurt me or hurt my feelings.

It is not healthy for me to spend a lot of time with them.

I should ask to spend more time with the people who keep me safe and happy.

This campaign promotes the idea of body autonomy for individuals with disabilities. ASERT has partnered with researchers at the National Crime Victims Research and Treatment Center at the Medical University of South Carolina to develop resources for the Be Safe campaign.

The Autism Services, Education, Resources and Training (ASERT) Collaborative is a statewide initiative funded by the Bureau of Autism Services, PA Department of Human Services.