

RULES FOR URINAL USE

Sometimes bathrooms have urinals.

Urinals are only for peeing.

Other people want space when they are using a urinal.

If there is more than one urinal, I should not use one that is next to someone else.

If there are not extra urinals, it is okay to use one next to someone else.

I should not talk to other people when I am using the urinal.

This campaign promotes the idea of body autonomy for individuals with disabilities. ASERT has partnered with researchers at the National Crime Victims Research and Treatment Center at the Medical University of South Carolina to develop resources for the Be Safe campaign.

The Autism Services, Education, Resources and Training (ASERT) Collaborative is a statewide initiative funded by the Bureau of Autism Services, PA Department of Human Services.

RULES FOR URINAL USE

When I use a urinal, I should only pull the front of my pants down.

I should not pull my pants the whole way down.

When I am done peeing, I should pull my pants up before I walk away from the urinal.

Sometimes urinals have things in them to make them smell better.

I should not touch anything in the urinal or in the bathroom.

I should wash my hands with soap and water before I leave the bathroom.

This campaign promotes the idea of body autonomy for individuals with disabilities. ASERT has partnered with researchers at the National Crime Victims Research and Treatment Center at the Medical University of South Carolina to develop resources for the Be Safe campaign.

The Autism Services, Education, Resources and Training (ASERT) Collaborative is a statewide initiative funded by the Bureau of Autism Services, PA Department of Human Services.