

TELLING ABOUT SEXUAL ABUSE: PART 1 (ADULT)

My private parts are the parts of my body that I cover with a bathing suit.

Sexual abuse can be when someone makes me do something sexual that I don't want to do.

If someone asks to see or touch my private parts and I don't want to, I should tell the person to stop.

I should tell them to stop if someone makes me touch their private parts and I don't want to.

When people do these things, they may tell me that what happened is a secret.

I should not keep it a secret. I should tell an adult or friend that I trust.

This campaign promotes the idea of body autonomy for individuals with disabilities. ASERT has partnered with researchers at the National Crime Victims Research and Treatment Center at the Medical University of South Carolina to develop resources for the Be Safe campaign.

The Autism Services, Education, Resources and Training (ASERT) Collaborative is a statewide initiative funded by the Bureau of Autism Services, PA Department of Human Services.
