

ROMANTIC SCAMS

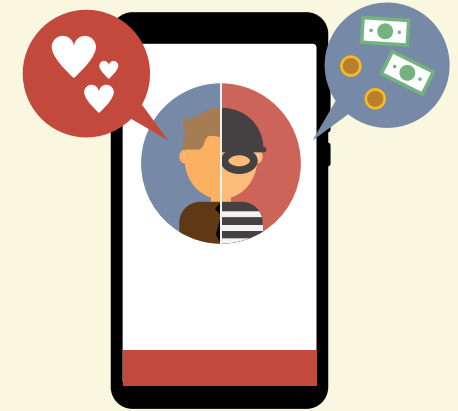

The internet can be a great tool but it can also be dangerous and people may try to scam me.

One kind of online scammer is called a romance scammer. Romance scammers create fake profiles on dating sites or on social media.

A romance scammer may try to start a relationship with me and tell me they love me.

They may ask me to send money to them or ask for gift cards.

I should not send money or gift cards to people I've only met online.

I should not share any personal information like my address, social security number, or bank information with people I meet online.

